ABOUT US

The BLAC Coalition is a policy think tank organization, established to advance and defend African-American interests for life and legacy. Bringing some of the brightest and most diverse minds in the country together, we research the state of the black community to develop tactical strategy to empower America's black ethos. Through strategic methodology, we work to dismantle systematic racism by creating systemic change, opportunity, and equity for African-Americans.

BLAC is an interracial movement that depends on the solidarity of both black and white individuals, and the collaboration of other races, to ensure that a united front is engaged in the fight against racist limitation and bias.

PARTNER WITH US

HELP US IN OUR VISION TO:

1. Close disproportionate disparities for African American communities through policy reform advocacy.
2. Foster realized equality for African American communities by centralizing solutions to those areas.
3. Secure the African-American human right to life by partnering in solidarity with champion organizations already engaged in the fight.
4. Craft and lobby local, state, and federal policies that protect African American rights that better serve black values.

SEPT 5 AT 11 AM

Founder of the BLAC Coalition, Dexter Sullivan and CNN Commentator, Bakari Sellers will be discussing his new book, My Vanishing Country: A Memoir - Saturday, September 5th at 11:00 AM.

Bakari has written a brilliant piece that captures the essence of his life's journey as a black man in this country. It provides the reader with both context and hope for the present, and a solid ray of hope for the future. Definitely something we all could use in 2020. To register and have the opportunity to submit a question about the book, visit www.TheBLAC.co!
